

BNP WELCOMES SUPPORT FROM DR SICKO

British National Party leader Nick Griffin's latest attempt to fleece yet more money from gullible BNP members reveals just what depths he'll sink to. Laughingly entitled 'The People's Support Fund', Nazi Nick claims to be raising money to defend BNP activists and supporters from a 'witch hunt' following the recent leaking of their membership list.

In order to try and get some sort of respectability for the appeal, Griffin states that "independent observers such as leading libertarian Dr Sean Gabb are comparing the onslaught launched against us to the political witch hunts in the early days of the Soviet and Nazi regimes".

If you're not familiar with Gabb's name, let us enlighten you. This sick bastard has publicly defended convicted child abuser Gary Glitter, stating that Glitter "was made to stand trial not because there was overwhelming evidence against him, but because the authorities do not approve of sexual pleasure". In Glitter's case, his "sexual pleasure" came from abusing kids. It's not "the authorities" who disapprove of paedophiles, it's society, ordinary people like you and me who know that such behaviour is disgusting and depraved. But Dr Sicko thinks it's OK.

And just in case you had any doubts about how twisted and ill-informed Dr Sicko is, he asserts that "it can be argued that it is less harmful for a child to be photographed in a warm studio over several hours than to be worked day after day in a factory with unguarded machinery all around".

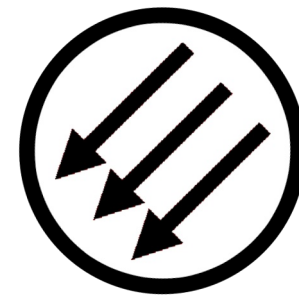

To try and create some kind of 'scale' of childhood suffering is about as warped as it gets. Child abuse is not acceptable in any way, shape or form. Any right-thinking person would try and work towards a world where no kid has to suffer for any reason, not try and find a reason to justify such suffering.

The fact that Griffin seeks approval for his politics from an apologist for paedophiles shows how desperate he is and how low he will go, and will sicken any decent person to the core.

Bristol Antifa is a newly-formed group dedicated to tackling fascism locally, nationally and internationally. Our position is simple: smash fascism by any means necessary! To find out more about supporting our work, please visit our website at <http://bristolantifa.org>

The 'Three Arrows' logo on the front page was originally used by the Iron Front, a German anti-fascist group that took direct action against Hitler's supporters in the early 1930s. Today, the symbol has been adopted by militant working class anti-fascists as the symbol of united international resistance to fascism. We're proud to be part of that tradition.

Pictured below are the fat pie-eating faces of the British National Party's local organisers, Clive Courtney (left) and Mark Clutterbuck (right). These two unsavoury characters, along with a handful of other social misfits and weirdos, have been spotted on the streets of Bristol in recent weeks handing out toilet paper disguised as leaflets. Like all gutless cowards they're very cagey about what they're up to, and they don't like it up 'em when they're rumbled. In fact, they're likely to run back to their sewers as fast as their hairy little legs will carry them when confronted by ordinary decent folk! NOT WANTED!

BNP - BANKRUPT NAZI PARASITES

Despite claims to the contrary by the bosses, bureaucrats and bankers, capitalism is a chaotic mess. And the economic turmoil that we're facing today is not a blip in the system, it is the nature of the beast. The ongoing crisis in capitalism is familiar to those of us living at the sharp end, and the present madness should act as a wake-up call to working class people everywhere. For most of us across the globe, the 'good times' are nothing but temporary periods of relative calm in the raging capitalist storm.

The failure of the political puppets of this insane system to look after our interests, even as they unite to defend and protect their own, is plain for all to see. Just look at all of the dodgy dealings carried out by the LibLabCon-trick! While we suffer at their hands, as soon as their interests are threatened they hurriedly band together to bail themselves out of their own mess. And it's us that always pay the price. It's like some kind of perverse socialism for the few at the expense of the many.

Meanwhile, the BNP claim that they are an alternative to this crappy capitalist society for the white working class. They offer the crudest of lies as 'solutions' to the problems our class face, regardless of our colour; lies that, if we believe them, would see us fighting and killing each other for the crumbs thrown from the rich man's table.

Not enough jobs? Blame the immigrants, while conveniently ignoring the facts that unemployment suits the interests of the capitalists as we fight and undercut each other for the right to be their wage slaves; that working for a crappy pay packet while the fat cats rake in the profits from our labour is not in our best interests; and that a world where the workload was based solely on meeting our needs and desires and shared out fairly would mean that most of our time would be free to spend however we choose.

Not enough houses? Blame the immigrants, while conveniently ignoring the facts that there are hundreds of thousands of empty properties in the hands of private landlords; that estate agents are thieving scum who make money from something that should be a basic right; and that working class people know how to create and build - all we need are the land and resources that the ruling class have stolen from us over the centuries!

Not enough whatevers? Blame the immigrants, while conveniently ignoring the facts that show time and again it's capitalism that lies at the root of our problems.

If fascists like the BNP ever gain power they'll carry on spewing out these lies, while they get on with robbing us blind from right under our noses. In that respect they're very much like every other bunch of slimy two-faced politicians, they'd just do it to a much greater degree!

The ruling class already use fear as a tactic to keep us isolated from each other. While we slave for them and fight among ourselves, they continue to profit from our blood and sweat. The fascists of the BNP, just like the fascists of the Taliban and Hitler's Third Reich, would only make things a thousand times worse. They will try anything to con us into voting for them, to get us to believe that our interests lie with them and their kind. Yet we, as working class people, have so much more in common with each other than we will ever have with these corrupt power whores. Now, more than ever, we must remember that.

The failure of capitalism to look after even our most basic needs is obvious for everyone to see. The solution is definitely not to vote for the most extreme version of it! The problems that we face, as ordinary people, will only be solved when we come together to take back what is rightfully ours, when we run this world for the benefit of all, not the few. We must organise and stand together as we march towards a future that can and will be ours.

The one thing fascists fear more than anything else is a strong and united working class, smashing down the false ideologies of nation, religion and race they prey upon. Let's give them every reason to fear.

VICTORY TO THE WORKERS!

We're very pleased to hear that the TOTAL oil refinery workers have won their strike. Despite the rantings of the BNP and right-wing media, this wasn't a strike about race or nation. It was about fair rights for all workers. The demands from the strikers' committee, overwhelmingly endorsed by the rank and file, made that very clear. This victory ensures both jobs for local people and equal conditions with union protection for the migrant workers. Links will also be built with unions abroad to create a united front against the bosses and fascists that try to divide us.
